

Nah an Mensch und Technik.

Technical English

Code and name of module: ECTS credits: 2 Attribute: Voluntary participation Contact hours: 30 Self-study hours: 20 Language of instruction: English Module owner: Language Centre Last update: 2024 Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course. Exam preparation: Details on exam preparation will be given directly by the teacher.	Codo and name of	Took wised Facilish
Attribute: Voluntary participation Contact hours: 30 Self-study hours: 20 Language of instruction: English Module owner: Language Centre Last update: 2024 Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.		rechnical English
Contact hours: 30 Self-study hours: 20 Language of instruction: English Module owner: Language Centre Last update: 2024 Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering — by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	ECTS credits:	2
Self-study hours: 20 Language of instruction: English Module owner: Language Centre Last update: 2024 Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.		Voluntary participation
Language of instruction: English Module owner: Language Centre Last update: 2024 Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.
Module owner: Last update: 2024 Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering — by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.
Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.
Content*: This course is designed to improve the communication skills and specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering — by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	Module owner:	Language Centre specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	Last update:	2024 specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating. The level of English is C1. Prerequisites: English knowledge of at least B 2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Seminar Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.
Reference for Languages) or equivalent. Type of instruction: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	Content*:	specialist language knowledge of engineers. The course covers topics common to all fields of engineering such as materials science, environmental auditing, monitoring and control, various procedures and precautions as well as engineering design and problem solving. Authentic activities based on everyday engineering situations make the course practical and motivating.
Literature: Cambridge English for Engineering – by Mark Ibbotson ISBN: 978-0-521-71518-8 Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	Prerequisites:	·
Assessment: The assessment consists of regular attendance, active verbal class participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	Type of instruction:	Seminar participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written examination at the end of the course.	Literature:
Exam preparation: Details on exam preparation will be given directly by the teacher.	Assessment:	participation, presentation, submission of coursework and a written
	Exam preparation:	Details on exam preparation will be given directly by the teacher.

^{*}Content of lectures is subject to change and can each semester be adjusted to the group's needs.